STOCKS DECLINE IN DULL MARKET

(By H. H. Bru Co.)

GLOBE, June 13.—Stocks were again weaker today and it looks like it will be a drag for some time to come. The uncertainty of the metal market continues to be used as a pressure in copper stocks; also some talk of the crops not being as favorable as reports given out is being used by the bears to create depression as far as it will stick.

From an observer's point of view we are unable to locate anything seriously wrong with the market, excepting that it is very much neglected, there being no buying power present and very little attention given to stock investments.

Old Dominion was manipulated well by the bear factors today, selling as low as $12.00, while the opening bid price was $15. Utah Consolidated also sold down to $53. The sag was from one to three points all along the line. We would advise stocks moderately bought.

The local stock market was fairly active today. Some good buying continued in Globe Consolidated, National, Superior & Boston and Globe-Arizona, Globe Consolidated being the most active. We look for present investors to make money.

SOME MODERN GIANTS

Some Men and Women Who Have Been Noted for Their Great Height

Marie Fassnauer, Tyrolean woman, towers to the height of eight feet. But Marie, in spite of her many inches, is not the most excited lady who ever lived. Just a quarter of a century ago the world gazed with craned head and open mouth at a still taller giantess, who looked down on her admirers from a height of 8 feet 2 inches and who was said to be "still growing." "Marian," as this remarkable maiden was called, had been born only sixteen years earlier in a village near the Thuringian mountains, and the months the greatest attraction in the spectacle of "Babil and Bijou" at the Alhambra theater—a character in which she wore a wonderful suit of armor and was crowned with a towering head dress, the topmost plume of which was a good ten feet from the stage.

Nor was Marian distinguished only by her great height; for she had a beautifully proportioned figure, a distinctly pretty face and a most amiable disposition. This magnificent creature had a very brief tenure of life, for she died at Berlin less than two years later, and before she had seen her eighteenth birthday.

In 1869 and 1870 Miss Anna H. Swan, the "Nova Scotia giantess," caused considerable sensation. Miss Swan seemed destined from the cradle to be a woman of abnormal dimensions; for though her father, a Scottish immigrant, was barely 5 feet 6 inches high, and her mother was a half a foot shorter still, Miss Anna reached 6 feet at the age of 11 years, and at 15 was the tallest person in Nova Scotia. For a time she was the chief attraction of Barnum's great show—and during this period she twice narrowly escaped death from fire. She had, too, some historic ability, as was proved when she appeared as Lady Macbeth in New York and before going to England she made a triumphal tour of the United States.

In her prime Miss Swan was but a few inches short of 8 feet, and she found an appropriate husband in Captain Martin Bates, the Kentucky giant, who was actually two inches taller than herself.

Chang, the Chinese giant who ended his days at Bonremouth not many years ago, was a man of enormous size, standing over 8 feet in his socks, but he used to declare that he had a sister at home in China who could easily look over his head. This remarkable lady was 8 feet 4 inches in height and had a hand with a span of two feet.

Robert Hales, the Norfolk giant, who caused a great sensation in England about a half century ago, was a member of a very remarkable family, which included some women of extraordinary stature. His father, a farmer, was 6 feet 6 inches high, and although his mother was but a paltry 6 feet, it is said that she had an ancestor in the sixteenth century who stood 4 inches over 8 feet. Of the children of this couple the four sons averaged 6 feet 5 inches and five daughters but 1½ feet less. Robert, the tallest of the family, was a little over 7½ feet high, and measured sixty-four inches and sixty-two inches around the waist and chest, respectively; while the tallest of his sisters, who died at twenty, was 7 feet 2 inches in height and of proportionate build.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

SOME CURIOUS STRIKES

There Is Scarcely a Class of Workers That Has Not Participated in One

The recent strike of the London music hall artists calls attention to the fact that there is scarcely a class of workers, from actors to executioners, from lawyers to beer drinkers and from parsons to choir boys which has not at one time or another asserted its rights and avenged its wrongs in a similar way.

Not long ago Spain was the scene of a combined strike of actors throughout its length and breadth, which arose as a sequel to the popular indignation at the election of an undesirable archbishop at Valencia. The police of Madrid took the extreme step of closing the Zarzuela theater and arresting several of the actors for singing political songs directed against the government and the unpopular prelate. In consequence of this indignity the whole theatrical world arose in arms, and a meeting of the Spanish Actors association was held, at which a universal strike and the closing of all the theaters in the country were proclaimed.

The barristers of St. Amand, in the department of Cher, when lectured by the judge of the district court on their habit of stirring up litigation and "setting the peaceful inhabitants of the town by the ears," left the court in a body and refused to enter again until the judge made an ample apology for his charges; and when at the tribunal of Sens another judge thought fit to reprimand one of the lawyers for the defense and had him ejected from the court, all his fellow barristers to a man signed a protest and announced their intention never to plead again before him until he had made suitable amends for his conduct.

At Crazeo, not long ago, the doctors refused to attend their patients unless their remuneration was increased; in New Zealand, when a poll-tax was instituted which pressed heavily against the trade agents coming from Sydney, the commercial travelers, one and all, determined to boycott the country until the offensive impost was removed or modified; and in Canton the executioners once declined point-blank to cut off any more heads unless their fee was doubled. The official to whom the announcement was made declined to concede the extra pay, but comforted the petitioners with the assurance that their business would soon be brisker than it had been.

Strikes among choristers are far from uncommon. To give but two examples, the choir boys at St. John's, Chatham, walked in a body out of the church in the middle of a service one Christmas day, and a church choir in Yorkshire struck because their singing was marred by the strident efforts of a well-meaning, but unusual member of the congregation.

Even in the world of athletics strikes are by no means uncommon. There was a formidable strike of footballers at Crewe; and not long ago the members of a famous Scottish team refused to play unless a reporter whose remarks had displeased them was excluded from the ground.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
